

Hombre Ombre Bracelet

Pattern and Instructions by Gail DeLuca

This is a Flat Peyote stitch pattern that gently blends colors for an hombre effect. You can use dark to light shades of the same color for a traditional hombre effect, or blend completely different colors together.

Supplies Needed:

4 colors size 11 Delica Beads
 Beading Needle (Size 10)
 Beading Thread (Such as Fireline 4lb, or K.O.)
 Scissors, bead blanket
 Clasp of choice

Tips for Working with Patterns

Two kinds of patterns are included, depending on which you find easier to follow. To use the diagram, it helps to line a ruler up along the row and cross out each row as you complete it. For the word chart, a little check mark will do.

When the rows are long, I find it helpful to lay out all the beads in the row, then just stitch them instead of going back and forth to check the pattern with each stitch.

When I stitch, I flip my beadwork with each row. That can make it a little confusing to tell which direction I am going when looking at the pattern. I find it helps to use a special bead for my stop bead (not one in the kit), leave my stop bead on, then mark the pattern with a little arrow to indicate where the stop bead is. Then when I look at the pattern, I can quickly tell which direction to go!

Adjust the number of rows in the beginning and end to adjust the length of the bracelet. A simple way to do this is to go ahead and bead all the rows 1-23 as solid color, continue with the pattern, then see how you like the length when you get to row 191. Add additional rows of Bead B as needed. To center the pattern remove rows from the beginning and add more after row 191 to get the length you want. Add clasp of your choice to finish.

Remember, to start you will string the first two rows at once!
